

Task – Technical Specification

You need to write a technical specification for your proposed solution to the development task.

This specification should outline how each technical challenge will be overcome.

Your technical specification should be written in such a way that any other developer could pick up the specification document and execute your solution.

Don't worry about specifying how the Drupal CMS works, you can assume this is an existing system. You should however outline any new modules or libraries you intend to use.